100 NORDIC WOMEN made a colorful procession up Nassau Street Saturday afternoon. These Swedish women in the front of the march were wearing light blue cotton gowns individually embroidered with doves and flowers and peace symbols. The banner they carry attests to a similar march to Paris in 1981 and from Oslo to Moscow last summer, all in the quest of East-West accord and a stop to nuclear weapon deployment in Europe. The group spent the weekend in Princeton staying with 73 families and spoke at 15 area churches Sunday before departing, on foot, for Washington where they will join the August 27 March for Jobs, Peace and Freedom. (Michaels McMillan photo)

Property Lying Along Proposed Rt. 92 Alignment Trespassed Upon in Unauthorized Survey Work

Who cut a swath through Lawrence Glasberg's back woods, leaving red surveyor's ribbons and reference points on stakes and trees some 50 feet in from the property line? For that matter, who cut a similar swath along the rear of Autumn Hill Reservation?

Mr. Glasberg discovered that underbrush had been evenly cut as if by machine in a path four to five feet wide and extending the full 830-foot width of his property on Sunday evening. Surveyor stakes with irridescent orange ribbons were clustered around an iron pipe marking the property corner, and additional reference points were left on bushes and trees along the path.

Not having authorized any survey work, and not having received any requests for permission to enter his property, which is posted on all sides with no trespassing signs, he was, he says, "absolutely flabbergasted." Because his property line, as well as the Autumn Hill Reservation line, lies on the Princeton-Montgomery Township border where the most recent alignment of Route 92 is proposed, he assumed that the state Department of Transportation was undertaking some preparatory study.

But the DOT stoutly insists that it is not doing any survey work in that area. Not far from the swath, and connected to it by a narrower path, DOT bulldozers have removed large trees on the Montgomery side of the line to create access for a coring rig with which to determine the depth of the diabase.

On Monday morning Mrs. Glasberg asked Township Engineer Robert S. Kiser and a Township police officer to come see for themselves the evidence of trespassing on the Glasberg property and Autumn Hill Reservation. Mr. Kiser says that the crew working the coring rig on the Montgomery side of the line told him that the survey work had been done by Louis Berger and Associates of East Orange, consultants for the DOT on the Route 92 project.

However, representatives of Louis Berger and Associates also stoutly deny that they have been doing any survey work for the DOT in the Princeton-Montgomery area. According to Saul Smith, project manager, the firm is engaged in engineering studies for Route 92 for the DOT but the state is doing its own environmental work.

Russell Stevenson, chief of the Bureau of Project Location at DOT, acknowledged that the coring rig on the Montgomery side of the line belonged to

Princeton High School Omitted From SAT Ranking of N.J. Schools

"We never even knew about the survey until we saw the story in the New York Times," says Princeton's assistant superintendent of schools.

Jamie McKenzie, angry and voluble, exploded this week about a College Entrance Examination Board ranking of secondary schools that doesn't even mention Princeton High School and gives top marks to schools where the combined median score for the 1982 SATs, is lower than Princeton High's.

"We never even saw the survey," Mr. McKenzie said flatly.

"It never reached me," says PHS principal John Sakala. "We would have responded if it had, because every time I have an opportunity to promote Princeton High, I do so."

Princeton High's combined median score for 1982 was 1034, Mr. Sakala said. Tenafly ranked highest of any New Jersey public high school responding to the survey, according to the College Board, with 1021. West Windsor-Plainsboro was high for this area with 1011.

The highest possible score would be 1600 because 800 is the top score in each of the two SAT sections — verbal and mathematics.

The figure of 1034 for Princeton comes from Educational Testing Service, which administers College Board tests, Mr. Sakala said. His own figures show an even higher 1063, a difference apparently due to ETS' system of using categories, according to the principal. He added,

"Since ETS knows the scores, why do a survey?"

The College Board sent the questionnaires to all 480 New Jersey schools, public and private: 304 responded.

"We find offensive the whole horse-race idea," Mr. McKenzie declared, "schools should not be compared solely on the basis of

Witherspoon and John Street Residents Invited to Discuss Use of $85,000 Grant

Everyone who lives in the John Street-Witherspoon Street area is invited this Sunday to a meeting where Borough and state officials will talk about the Borough's $85,000 Neighborhood Preservation Grant.

The meeting will be held at 3 p.m. on the third floor of the Masonic Temple, John and Maclean Streets. Borough Administrator Mark Gordon, Borough Clerk Penelope Carter and Leonard Zuhlcke of the New Jersey Department of Community Affairs, will outline the program.

"We have the money in the pot — what's the best way to spread it around?" is the way Mr. Gordon explains the purpose of the meeting. "It will be just a general discussion, to make people aware of the program. We don't have any specific ideas yet."

At the meeting, residents of the area will learn about the possible income levels of people who might receive loans or grants. Will there be money for complete weatherization, for example, or just for caulking? Who will receive loans, who will receive outright grants?

Officials also want residents to know in advance that there will be a house-to-house survey of the area. This survey will help the Borough to determine specifics, like the number of households and who would receive grants, who would receive loans.

First priority will be given to homes, including those owned by landlords. The Borough has applied, through the county, for another grant which might include commercial properties.

A director, hired by the Borough, will run the program. Deadline for applications was this Wednesday and interviews will begin next week. Among the "eight or nine" applicants, Mr. Gordon says, are people who live in the John-Witherspoon neighborhood, and the municipality hopes it can find a qualified person who does live in John-Witherspoon.

the Department and was taking exploratory borings to determine the rock situation underneath. But he added, "If there are survey crews, we don't know who they are."

Anthony DeLucia at the DOT was even more emphatic. "We have no people out there doing survey work," he said, "not from our state forces or our consultant forces." Mr. DeLucia said that it would be unusual for the DOT to do physical surveying "this soon" in a project such as Route 92. "We use controlled aerial photography," he said. "Measurements on it are pretty accurate."

Mr. DeLucia acknowledged that one might assume the survey work was related to the coving, since they were occurring within 100 feet of one another. But he suggested that surveyors for developers or the property owner might be at work in the area.

"Look," he said, "Route 92 is not a popular project,--popular in some places, but not popular in other places. I can assure you no one is trying to lie to you. If we had made a mistake we would be the first to admit it."

PETRONE PROMOTED: John F. Petrone, a 28-year veteran of the Princeton Township police force, has been named to the newly created position of captain. Township Chief Anthony Pinelli said that the appointment will make Captain Petrone second in line in the department's chain of command. Township Committeeman Richard Schoch added that the new captain "will add great distinction to our force." The captain, known as Jack Petrone, is the father of Township Patrolman John Petrone Jr. The new position will pay $33,500 a year.

SAT scores. The strength of the school's program is a vital element."

"Many things aren't measured by SATs," in Mr. Sakala's view, "subtle things teachers do to instill a desire for learning, getting kids to explore things they never did before, providing breadth of experience.

"In our English classes, for example, kids examine the classics, discuss interpretations and draw inferences about characterization — it's NOT drills on grammar or explication. Exposure like this gives kids a chance to build a vocabulary and use language correctly. We stay away from rote.

"But I don't want to make comparisons with other schools; after all, only 60 percent responded to the survey."

The principal also pointed out that he encourages all PHS students to take the College Boards, even those in a remedial class. At other schools, he suggested, only 25 percent of a student body might take the tests.

The College Board survey reported combined scores on the SATs, the Scholastic Aptitude Tests. Mr. Sakala pointed to scores on other College Board tests — the achievement tests in individual subjects.

At the Math. II level, 55 students took the test; mean score: 703, out of a possible 800; in French, 60 students, mean score 618; in physics, 22 students, mean score 712 and

Several Proposals for New Building Projects Create Busy Agenda for Local Planning Board

Projects ranging from a new $29 million Princeton University laboratory to the addition of an apartment in a single-family house will occupy planners and zoners over the next few weeks in one of the busiest late-summer stretches on record.

"We didn't used to have Planning Board meetings in August," is the wistful comment of board administrator Pearl Pillon.

But three full-agenda ones have been scheduled, including an extra one, and a preview meeting this Wednesday.

For its new molecular biology department, the University plans a 110,000-square-foot-building, due for Planning Board preview this Wednesday. It will be built off Washington Road south of Moffett Laboratory, approximately where the Guyot Hall greenhouses now are. They will be moved.

Writing to the Planning Board, the University says it "must" have approval by November if the building is to open the summer of 1985.

Another big newcomer is the cluster of 26 single-family homes proposed by developer Benedict Yedlin for the former Foulet property on Cherry Hill Road between Cherry Hill and Red Hill Roads. Mr. Yedlin will appear in concept review September 22.

This Thursday's Planning Board work session will be largely devoted to Joseph Jingoli's two office buildings on Thanet Road (off Terhune) on the former Bowers property. The original Bowers plan was approved by Township Committee — on appeal from a Planning Board decision — but Mr. Jingoli has a new plan the board likes better; it shows the buildings farther back with more landscape screening.

Mr. Jingoli wants approval for "banked" parking — land not used for parking but set aside for possible future expansion.

The September 7 agenda has the Medical Center's proposed three-story office building on the corner of Witherspoon and Henry. The only suggestions from the Environmental Design Review Committee asked for wide enough walkways for pedestrian safety, and an "esthetic relation" to nearby medical buildings.

An entity known as Alpha Properties wants to convert the two houses at 274 and 276 Witherspoon to office buildings. Alpha will also be heard September 7.

Neighbors' protests about landscaping and possible misuse of a one-way access road are expected September 15 when the Harrison Professional Group on North Harrison, appears with the revised landscape plans requested by the board.

That meeting will also consider EDRC recommendations on the five townhouses at Charlton and William planned by realtor James Firestone, and revised road plans by J. Robert Hillier for his development of the former Knox property on Mountain Avenue. The new plans are drawn to save several large trees.

Meanwhile, the Borough Zoning Board at its August 25 meeting will hear two conversion proposals. In one, an apartment is being added; in the other, an apartment is being removed.

Robert and Sharon Powell want to buy the Peter De Mauro building at 12-14 Vandeventer and need a use variance to convert a residential portion to office use. Four apartments would remain in the building.

At 14 Humbert Street, Ronald and Antonia Nielsen seek a hardship variance to change a one-family house to a two-family house. Lot area and yard set-backs are not sufficient under zoning regulations.

The big ones, like Jingoli and the hospital's office building are expected to spill over into other meetings, perhaps requiring still more special meetings.

And some time this fall, the board expects Collins Development with Phase III — the deck across Hulfish and its related structures.

PARK AND SHOP AND ... Join Fire Company. Membership in Princeton's three volunteer fire companies and the next step toward a new Park and Shop lot occupied Borough Council at its August 9 meeting.

Under an ordinance introduced Tuesday, the fire companies' Board of Engineers may recommend that Council waive the residency requirement for fire company members. The requirement is that members live within a six-mile radius of the center of town, defined as the Medical Center buildings on lower Witherspoon Street.

Auxiliary members may live within a 12-mile radius. An ordinance passed in June, 1982, established residency requirements for the first time, but made no provision for a waiver. The 1982 ordinance also incorporates a grandfather clause allowing those who are already members, to live outside Princeton.

The reason Princeton needs residency requirements is that the companies must have enough members nearby to respond quickly to fire calls. Public hearing on the new ordinance will be Tuesday, September 13.

Sometime this fall — Council hopes — the new Park and Shop lot on Witherspoon Street, next to the library, will be ready to receive cars and customers. Council introduced on Tuesday the ordinance setting up a schedule of fees and hours.

The gate equipment that will convert the lot to Park and Shop will be delivered "sometime this fall," but there is no specific date, Council learned.

The new lot will have a different configuration from the present one. The only entrance and exit will be on Spring Street, and the Witherspoon Street entrance will be closed.

Drivers will enter from Spring, take a ticket, park, and when they return, either take advantage of free parking because they have made a purchase at a participating store, or pay the fee. They will then drive out the Spring Street exit.

The present library driveway, in from Wiggins, will be set aside for drivers who are dropping people off at the library. No parking in this driveway will be allowed. Drivers will make their drop-offs and exit into Witherspoon Street. The driveway will continue to be used for commercial deliveries to the library.

BURGLAR THWARTED

Neighbor Cited. Township Police, who say that alert and responsive residents have helped them make their last three apprehensions, this week foiled another burglary attempt, thanks to an audible alarm and a neighbor who promptly called police.

Chief Anthony Pinelli said that the alarm sounded at a Ewing Street residence at 12:56 p.m. last Thursday. A neighbor investigated and saw nothing unusual but reported the incident to police nevertheless.

Police responded and determined that a window had been pulled open and a screen pushed in, thereby setting off the alarm. The police then located a bicyclist in the area who said she had seen a suspect running from the house toward Mount Lucas Road, where he entered a small car bearing a white license plate with blue letters.

Police made no arrest in the case, but Chief Pinelli encouraged citizens to continue to make such reports. "We welcome all calls," he said. "People shouldn't be concerned if it's a false alarm or if it doesn't seem to be suspicious."

"We want to be informed of any incidents," he continued. "We've been getting a lot of response from the public. We've been having some good luck."

TWO DRIVERS CHARGED

With Drunk Driving. A 23-year-old New Brunswick man and a Skillman teenager are due to appear in Township Court September 13 on charges of driving while under the influence of alcohol.

Patrolman Anthony Gaylord arrested Michael V. Fleming of New Brunswick in the early morning hours last Wednesday after spotting a car being driven in an erratic manner on the Princeton-Kingston road.

Patrolman Gaylord arrested David J. Schmidt, 18, of Skillman at 10:43 p.m. last Saturday on Cherry Valley Road. Chief Anthony Pinelli said the teenager also was charged with tampering with evidence after he attempted to retrieve a driver's license that police had seized because it was made out to another individual. Mr. Schmidt was released on $250 bail.

Chamber of Commerce Letter Urges Quick Construction of Rt. 92 By-Pass

Princeton's Chamber of Commerce wants the Route 92 by-pass built "as quickly as possible," but straddles the ridge and does not come out in favor of one route or another.

In a letter to John P. Sheridan, Commissioner of Transportation, the Chamber cites the increasing development of the region and "traffic congestion on local roads" as reasons for building 92.

"We are pleased that the department is evaluating a variety of alternatives for Route 92," the letter states. "We do not know which alternative or alignment is best and therefore do not support any specific one at this time ... We realize that any new road will have some negative impact on some people. The DOT should obviously attempt to minimize the negative impacts while not seriously compromising the road's benefits.

"These are very difficult trade-offs and thus the DOT's consultation with communities is extremely important."

But communities have "a certain responsibility" also, the Chamber states.

"While local perspectives should be addressed, local interests should also recognize that there are regional or state-wide benefits to be gained by Route 92. It would be unfortunate if the aggregation of individual interests resulted in a Route 92 alternative that did not serve regional traffic needs."

The Chamber's letter underscores the organization's feeling that the primary purpose of 92 is to relieve local traffic congestion.

"This goal is an important environmental, quality of life and economic development concern. Route 92 must provide an attractive alternative to the ever-growing volumes of traffic on local roads.

"We urge you to do all that is possible to keep Route 92 a high priority and get it built as quickly as possible. This is the best way to encourage orderly development of the region."

SOLDIER CHARGED

In Eating Club Thefts. A 21-year-old Army private, formerly of West Windsor and recently assigned to Fort Dix, was due to appear in Borough Court this Wednesday on charges of stealing stereo equipment and other goods from four Princeton University eating clubs last week.

Police charged Jordan K. Murdock, now a resident of Scottsdale, Arizona, with burglary and theft. He was held on $3,500 cash bail.

The investigation which resulted in the soldier's arrest began at 4:24 a.m. last Thursday, when Borough police received a call from University security officers who had seen a 1965 Ford Mustang, with stereo equipment inside, parked on Roper Lane off Prospect Avenue.

Patrolman John Redding entered Cottage Club to see if anything was amiss while Sergeant Peter Hanley kept the car under observation. When a man carrying a canvas bag with a radio sticking out of it approached the car, Sgt. Hanley chased him and arrested him after what police termed a brief scuffle.

Police were still trying to determine who owned the items found in the car. They estimated the value of the stolen property at between $1,500 and $2,000, and said that the clubs entered included Colonial, Cottage, Cap and Gown, and Tiger Inn.

TRENTON MAN CHARGED

For Weapon Possession. Borough Patrolman Michael Taylor, acting on an observation he had made while writing a parking ticket three weeks earlier, last week apprehended a Trenton man and charged him with unlawful possession of a weapon.

Patrolman Taylor had noticed a machete on the driver's seat of the car he ticketed earlier in the summer. The patrolman had to leave the car before the driver returned but he made a mental note of the car's description.

He saw a car similar to it last Tuesday, August 9, and stopped it on Chambers Street near Hulfish. While the driver, John M. Rossi, 20, was reaching into a compartment for his license and registration, Patrolman Taylor observed five bullets. He summoned Patrolman Chris Boutote to assist him and their search revealed a .25 calibre automatic handgun, a large knife and 40 more rounds of ammunition in the trunk.

The suspect was released on his own recognizance and scheduled to appear in Borough Court this Wednesday.

HOUSE RANSACKED

Silver Taken. A house on Random Road was entered and ransacked sometime in the morning of Tuesday, August 9, Township police reported. The police said that someone apparently forced open a sliding door in the back of the house and removed a screen to gain entrance. Silver and jewelry were taken.

Police said the incident was reported by a neighbor who showed up at the house that day to enjoy a dip in the swimming pool. The owners were on vacation.

DELI ENTERED

$500 In Cash Stolen. Township police reported that the Jan-Ray Deli on State Road was entered sometime between 10 p.m. last Wednesday, August 10, and 8 the next morning.

The thief or thieves entered through a second floor window and made off with about $500 in cash.

POOL WORKERS HIT

By Thieves. A Harris Road resident on the staff of the Community Park Pool reported the theft of two swimming suits, sweat pants, and sandals from a locker at the pool sometime between 6:30 p.m. last Thursday and noon the next day. The articles were valued at $100.

Between 8:30 and 1:30 that Friday a car parked at the pool was entered and a tote bag, containing contact lenses and other items valued at $350, was stolen. The owner is a Lawrence Township resident who is also on the staff of the pool.

INJURIES SLIGHT

In Several Crashes. Drivers, passengers, and a bicyclist all escaped serious injuries in three separate accidents investigated last week by Borough and Township police.

Borough Police said that a Trenton man apparently "fell asleep or passed out" at the wheel of the car he was operating last Tuesday, August 9, at about 3:46 p.m. The car, driven by Gregory J. Olszewski, 20, plowed into a car stopped for a light on Bayard Lane and created a chain collision with another car stopped at the same intersection.

The second car was driven by Alice J. Mariani of Neshanic. She and her daughter, Francesca, hit their heads against the windshield, breaking the glass but causing them no serious injuries. They refused treatment. Police said they detected no evidence of skid marks and issued a summons to Mr. Olszewski.

At about 10 p.m. that same day a Plainsboro woman reported to Township police that she had been ejected from her car after being forced off the road by an oncoming vehicle that veered into her lane.

Police said that Marguerit A. Pereira, 25, of 2801 Fox Run Drive, Plainsboro, was heading north on Quaker Bridge Road near the Updike farm when the accident occurred. She swerved her car into a soy bean field owned by the Institute for Advanced Study. She was thrown from the car but refused treatment for her bruises.

Cyclist Escapes. A 21-year-old student at the Westminster Choir College was struck by a car while riding her bicycle on North Harrison Street last Wednesday, August 10. Township police said that a car driven by George Colnaghi, 41, of 16 Fisher Avenue, was stopped on Clearview Avenue and attempting to turn right onto Harrison when the accident occurred.

The bicyclist, Sophia Schooley, sustained a slight cut to her right foot and declined to be treated. No charges were issued by police.

DEAR OLD DEER

Another One Struck. The deer population of Princeton Township apparently suffered another loss in the early morning hours last Friday. Police said that a car driven by Jill N. Hochman, 18, of 11 Monterey Drive, struck a deer at about 1:30 a.m. on Cherry Valley Road.

The deer ran out from the right shoulder of the road and into the path of the car, which sustained damage to the right front fender and hood. The deer's condition was not reported.

MAILBOXES STRUCK

Three Charged. James Varney, 21, of 56 Leabrook Lane, Sean Keenan, 22, of 17 Random Road, and Sean Cavanaugh, 21, of New York City were all charged with malicious damage to property after Township Police responded to a report of three mailboxes being struck by cars and knocked over on Gallup Road early Tuesday morning.

Mr. Varney, driver of the car, also was charged with driving under the influence of alcohol and leaving the scene of an accident. The three were released on their own recognizance.

ANTENNA STOLEN

From Front Porch. A resident of South Harrison Street reported the theft of a television antenna, valued at $30, which had been mounted on the front porch. Neighbors

ABOUT COUNTY TAXES

Lowest Percentage of Increase. Mercer County has registered the lowest percentage of increase in its tax levy of any New Jersey County since 1979, according to figures released by Martin M. Guhl, County Tax Administrator.

The 1983 tax levy is $51,795,937, or $290,000 less than the 1982 levy, he said. Including this year's tax reduction, Mercer's four-year tax levy increase, a 20 percent total, is the lowest rate increase of any county in the state, according to Mr. Guhl.

He also said that the county tax rate has dropped from 94 cents per $100 of assessed value in 1979, to 77½ cents in 1963.

A GYM FOR ART

Agreement with PAA. January 1 isn't very far away, in terms of repairing an old roof, remodeling an interior and making one big space into smaller spaces.

A five-year renewable lease between the Borough and the Princeton Art Association, effective January 1, will give the PAA use of part of the former school gym behind Borough Hall. The remainder will be for senior citizen activities.

Council authorized the signing of the lease last week. Under its terms, the PAA will pay for all utilities up to $7,000 a year; above that, the art organization will split the utility bills with the Borough. The PAA will also provide maintenance for its own areas and the common areas that will be shared with the senior citizens.

'FAIR LADY'

Ends Open Air Season. The scenery will be folded away after "My Fair Lady" takes its final bow: the Lerner-Loewe musical is the last of the '83 season for the Open Air Theatre, Washington Crossing, and theatre management says it's been "the most successful season so far."

"My Fair Lady," in this Mercer Musical Theatre production, will be given at 8:30 p.m. this Thursday through Saturday and again next Thursday through Saturday, August 25-27, with rain dates on Sundays, August 21 or 28.

Mary Anne Esposito stars as Eliza Doolittle, the Cockney flower girl who becomes a "lady" undgr the elocutionary tutelage of Professor Henry Higgins, who is convinced that the only difference between and flower girl and a lady is proper pronunciation.

Higgins is Andy Hornyak, in this production. His crony, Colonel Pickering, will be Jeff Mershon and Eliza's father, Alfred, one of the "undeserving poor," will be Charles Leeder.

Ruth Kalatuka is the director, and Robert Parrish is in charge of music direction. The producer is Richard Anzuini.

News Of The THEATRES

TWO MORE FILMS

At Kresge. Continuing its policy of choosing double features with a theme, Summer Cinema has chosen a pair of "outstanding examples of screen-writing" for the current presentation in Kresge Auditorium.

"True Confessions" and "Atlantic City" will play through this Sunday in the Washington Road theatre. The former is being shown at 7:30 and the latter at 9:30 each evening.

A screen adaptation of John Gregory Dunne's detective novel by Dunne himself and his wife, Joan Didion, "True Confessions" tells the story of the Spellacy brothers — an ambitious young Catholic priest and a Los Angeles detective. Robert De Niro and Robert Duvall play the parts.

More than a whodunit — as the detective investigates the grisly murder of a prostitute and porno film actress — "True Confessions" is also about American Catholicism and American business.

In "Atlantic City," Burt Lancaster plays an aging gangster involved in a romance with a young woman, portrayed by Susan Sarandon, who wants a career in the new gambling mecca of Atlantic City.

The film has elements of gangster movies, romantic melodrama, screwball comedy and bittersweet valentines.

The Montgomery Theatre is Local Home For Those Who Prefer 'Films' to 'Movies'

Inside the darkened auditorium, an attentive audience sits spellbound as Franco Zeffirelli's film version of the opera "La Traviata" unfolds before them. In the quiet lobby, posters proclaim the coming attractions: Robert DuVall's critically acclaimed "Angelo;" a French film with Simone Signoret, "L'Etoile du Nord;" and John Sayles's "Lianna."

You are at the Montgomery Theater in the Montgomery Shopping Center on Route 206 north of Princeton. This is not a movie theater, because they do not show movies here. They show films—art films, foreign films, films by Fellini and Fassbinder, fabulous films. This is the shrine for film enthusiasts in the Princeton area.

Look more closely at the shrine, however, and you see the trappings of a secular world. The background music filling the theater before some showings sounds as if it was recorded for a merry-go-round. On this night, the opening night of "La Traviata," the ticket taker and candy counter employee sneak glances at the black and white portable television set, tucked behind the cash register and tuned to "The Dukes of Hazzard."

In the projection booth, the theater owner and manager, Bob Piechota, worries about the economics of maintaining an independent theater in the midst of the giant chains, or circuits, as they are called in the business, that dominate the movie industry. Now that the Montgomery is 10 years old, and with a new, 10-year lease just signed, Mr. Piechota wonders if this is the time to "twin" the theater, and reap the obvious financial advantages of showing two movies with virtually the same overhead.

Mr. Piechota bounds from his seat every few minutes to peek into the auditorium. He is more interested in the quality of the sound level than in the content of the film. "It's the complete opera and it may be very good," he says, "but it's not on my list of things to see."

Packed Matinees. Mr. Piechota's list from childhood has included running his own movie theater and being in business for himself. The son of a job shop printer, Mr. Piechota, 38, recalls packed Saturday afternoon matinees in Bound Brook and Dunellen. And those weren't films, they were movies: "Ten Commandments," "Ben Hur," "Gone With the Wind."

After high school, however, he turned to printing instead of the movies and joined the typographical union at the New Brunswick Home News. Then, in a few short months in 1971, he quit his job, got married, bought a house, and opened an independent theater, the Hillsborough Cinema on Route 206.

Two years later, with a group of other investors that included his father, Mr. Piechota opened the Montgomery Theater. In the beginning he just wanted to show movies, not films. He promptly encountered the difficulty faced by most independent movie theater operators—he couldn't get any first-run movies.

"The system is so rigged," says Mr. Piechota, who hopes to prove that charge in court some day. "The chains are willing to pay more for movies and, when you have 1,000 outlets, you have a lot of clout with the distributors." The little old Montgomery, showing sub-run movies one step away from the television screen and competing with the twins and triplexes and quads on Route 1, just kept losing money.

The First Film. "We were losing more than people would realize," says Mr. Piechota of the early days. "My wife (a registered nurse) worked. My father donated his time. I donated my time. I co-signed my house and everything over to it. Montgomery was a total loss."

He tried to turn it into a cheap house, with $1 seats. That didn't work. Then he tried foreign movies, that is films. "I wasn't at all interested in foreign films," admits Mr. Piechota. He knew at least that the actors spoke in foreign languages so he ordered prints that were dubbed in English. Then one day a print came with subtitles. That bothered Mr. Piechota but he played it anyway, and afterward people in the audience complimented him. For film enthusiasts, Mr. Piechota discovered, playing a dubbed film is like reading a condensed book—it's gauche. "Everything since then has been sub-titled," he says.

The foreign films did not immediately solve the financial problems of the Montgomery Theater. "Many nights no one showed up and we'd just close up the theater and go home," Mr. Piechota recalls. "But everyone was encouraging. People would say it's great and they'd request certain films."

Mr. Piechota still tries to honor the requests. "This is a better audience," he says, comparing the Montgomery crowd to the typical commercial moviegoers. "They're older (30s to 50s as compared to the late teens and 20s who flock to commercial pictures—they don't buy popcorn) and well educated. They know what they're seeing and what to expect. The foreign films are very review conscious. The critics said 'Superman III' stunk, but it's still done a lot of business. But foreing films have to have good reviews — critics can make or break them."

Check the Times. The toughest part of Mr. Piechota's job is choosing which films to book into the theater. "You have to watch what keys off of New York. If you open a film that hasn't played in New York, then no one would have heard of it. I watch for reviews in the New York Times and I check the business it does."

Exactly when he gets the film is another matter. "For some films there may be only 10 prints for the entire United States. 'Napoleon' had only four prints. Unless we guarantee a lot of money they won't give it to us."

Mr. Piechota now can afford to get those films, and he does, but he says he and his two partners (his father, now retired, and a Watchung real

FINAL CONCERT DUE

In Outdoor Series. The final concert of the Princeton University Outdoor Chamber Concert series will bring the Colorado Quartet to the main courtyard of the Princeton University Graduate College (Alexander Hall in case of rain) at 8:30 p.m. on Wednesday, August 24.

This quartet, formed as the Graduate Quartet-in-Residence at the University of Colorado in 1976, now holds the position of teaching assistants to the Juilliard Quartet at the Juilliard School in New York City. The quartet has performed extensively in the northeastern states as well as in France, England, Brazil and Czechoslovakia, and has been awarded prizes and fellowships at chamber music competitions in this country and abroad. The Colorado Quartet has coached with such outstanding groups as the Janacek, Vermeer and Cleveland Quartets.

The members are Julie Rosenfeld, violin; Deborah Redding, violin; Francesca Martin, viola; and Sharon Prater, cello. The program includes Mozart's Dissonant Quartet, K46 in C major, Webern's Five Movements for String Quartet, Opus 5 and Schubert's Death and the Maiden Quartet in D Minor.

Since concerts in this series are offered free, contributions are appreciated. Do bring blankets since chairs are not provided. If the weather is doubtful, call 452-5977 on the day of the concert for information about location.

TRAINING OFFERED

For Young String Players. The Mercer County Symphonic Orchestra String Training Ensemble, Portia Sonnenfeld, conductor, will begin its fifth year of training for young musicians from grades three and up.

Auditions will be held on Wednesday, September 14, at the Music House at the Lawrenceville School for violin, viola, cello and bass. Audition appointments are necessary and may be made by calling Frances R. Posnock, manager of the Mercer County Symphonic Orchestra, at (201) 297-0528.

Mrs. Sonnenfeld provides orchestral training for these young musicians on Thursday evenings from 7 to 8:30 p.m. at the Music House. The children also gain additional experience by performing in two concerts each year.

IN CONCERT THURSDAY: Mojo Bone is the name of the group, and "boogie blues" is what they play. You can hear them Thursday at 7:30 in the final Summer Sounds concert in Community Park North. From left are George Kilby, Stubbs Orr, Sharif Hamdan and Sam Johnston.

invited to participate. Refreshments will be served.

ONE MORE CONCERT

In Summer Sounds Series. Mojo Bone, formerly known as The George [illegible]kel Band, will perform Thursday at 7:30 at Community Park North. The concert extends the Summer Sounds series by one, and will be the final event of the series.

Two of the original Dickel players have teamed up with two area musicians to form a boogie blues act. Showcasing their original material at "The Other End" in New York, Mojo Bone has appeared on the bill with such blues greats as Otis Rush and Etta James. In Washington, the group appeared before a sellout crowd at "The Wax Museum," a new nightclub.

The musicians are Sam Johnston from Alexandria, Va., Sharif Hamdan from Princeton, David Orr from Belle Mead, and George Kilby from Anniston, Ala. They share a common interest in original material and have an E.P. due in late fall.

Mojo Bone will be previewing its upcoming record along with other original tunes this Thursday. The band's repertoire could be called anything from "boogie" to "rockabilly" and "old rock 'n' roll," but it has its roots in the blues.

FOLK SONGS IN PARK

Free. Gary Struncius, New Jersey folk singer, will give a free concert this Saturday at 7 in Mercer County Park, West Windsor, next to the ice rink (rain: inside rink).

A folk singer who has toured widely, appearing on campuses, in libraries and for folk clubs and festivals, Struncius is also cultural director of the Pinelands Cultural Society, an organization dedicated to preserving the music of the New Jersey Pine Barrens.

estate broker) are still a long way from becoming rich at the Montgomery. Twinning would enable him to run some film revivals (he's mindful of the success of the McCarter summer cinema program), and it would diminish his losses if he booked one film that turned out to be a box office dud. For all the enthusiasm he has for his films, the 505-seat theater has never sold out. He came close last Saturday night with "La Traviata." But twinning would require another major investment—"I don't know if I want to go in the hole again," he says.

The man who determines many of the foreign films playing in the Princeton area says that his own personal favorites have included "Diva," most of the Truffaut films, and "La Cage aux Folles." But between his job (he spends most nights at the Hillsborough theater), his wife's job, and their two kids, the Piechotas themselves don't often get to the movies.

How About 'Octopussy?' When they do go to the theater, the choice may be a movie rather than a film. "I can see why people get turned off by commercial films and foreign films have more depth. But some I look at and wonder how anyone can pay to see them. It's all a matter of taste."

Mr. Piechota is still a movie fan. "I enjoyed 'Star Wars,' and I liked the 'Rocky's.' I got a kick out of 'Porky's.' But he continues to listen to his audience of film enthusiasts. On this night, as he opens the exits for the patrons of "La Traviata," he is stopped by a couple who appear to be in their 50s. They loved the film and they engage Mr. Piechota in a discussion of the theater scene in the Princeton area.

Whatever happened to the Garden, the couple want to know. It's been twinned, Mr. Piechota tells them, and it's now playing "Octopussy" and "Trading Places." The man and woman shudder at the thought of those two movies. Mr. Piechota shrugs. He doesn't tell his customers this, but the truth is he hopes to see both of them—another matter of taste.

SHAKESPEARE, FREE

Festival Interns Perform. Acting interns who have been playing small roles in the New Jersey Shakespeare Festival's "War of the Roses" will get their big chance on stage when they present three "understudy matinees" of the plays in the "Roses" trilogy. All are free to the public, first-come, first served, and will be presented in the Festival's theatre on the campus of Drew University, Madison.

"Henry VI" will be performed this Sunday at 1:30; "Edward IV" Sunday, August 28 at 1:30 and "Richard III" Saturday, September 3 at 1.

No advance reservations are necessary, and audiences are advised to appear at the theatre half an hour before performance time.

The professional presentations of "War of the Roses" will continue through September 18, Tuesdays through Fridays at 8; Saturdays at 6 and 9:30 and Sundays at 7. Tickets may be reserved by calling 201-377-4487.

O'NEILL'S 'HUGHIE'

In Madison. Eugene O'Neill's two-character play, "Hughie," will be presented next Monday at 7 p.m. for one performance only as part of the New Jersey Shakespeare Festival's Monday Night Special series. The performance will be in the Festival theatre on the campus of Drew University, Madison.

Paul Barry, artistic director of the Festival, will play the part of Erie Smith, a small-time horse player hustling a marginal existence. Don Perkins will be Charlie, night clerk in a sleazy Times Square hotel, in whose lobby the story takes place.

Critics have said that the play suggests the entire Broadway scene of cheap gamblers, two-dollar whores, dime crapshooters and various hangers-on. The New York Times has described the play as "a compassionate, shattering character study."

Tickets may be reserved by calling the Festival at 201-377-4487.

Try-outs

A Moliere comedy and the musical "Annie" will both be open for auditions within the next week or two.

Open auditions for the Mercer College Theatre production of Moliere's "The Imaginary Invalid" will be held Wednesday and Thursday, August 31 and September 1 from 7 to 9 p.m. in Kelsey Theatre on the West Windsor campus of Mercer County Community College. Production dates are October 13-15 and 21-22.

The cast calls for four women, ages 14 to 50, and eight men from 18 to 65. Anyone 14 years old or above, may audition.

Additional information may be obtained by calling 586-4800, ext. 581.

"Annie," in the Bucks County Playhouse production, will be auditioning next Monday at 11 a.m. in the Playhouse, New Hope. The director wants girls ages seven through 12 to try out. They should take along an 8 x 10 picture and resume, wear dance clothing and be prepared to sing 16 bars of a ballad.

The musical will play October 19 through November 26.

The Princeton Chapter of the National Association of Accountants will hold its first technical luncheon meeting on Monday, August 29, at Good Time Charley's Restaurant in Kingston.

Joseph Czechowski, general credit manager of Amtico Flooring, Division of American Biltrite, Inc., will speak on "Credit Collections." The meeting will begin promptly at noon.

Guests are welcome. For information and-or reservations, contact Glenn Savarese at 201-464-8100, Ext. 2304.

Four board members and two directors of the Community Guidance Center of Mercer County attended a conference entitled "New Profit-Minded Techniques for Nonprofit Organizations." Those attending were Mrs. Whitney Coletti, Mrs. K. Adams Chenoweth, Mrs. John B. Hughes and John Andresen, board members, along with Mrs. Dorothy Rounds, executive director, and Mark Lamar, director of the Hamilton branch of the agency.

The conference was organized by the Children's Museum of Denver and the Pikes Peak Mental Health Center. The Community Guidance Center of Mercer County was opened in 1948 and thus is the oldest established facility continuously serving the mental health needs of area residents.

The West Windsor fire companies and rescue squad are seeking additional auxiliary members and volunteers. A membership round-up will be held Saturday, September 10, from 10 to 1 at the Twin W Squad house in West Windsor. The three organizations are the West Windsor Volunteer Fire Co. Some of the duties to be performed by auxiliary members, which relieves members to fight fires and meet emergencies, are publicity, fund raising, accounting and similar jobs. For additional information, call Joanne Waxman of the Twin W Rescue Squad, 799-1700, Paul La Salle of the West Windsor Volunteer Fire Co., 799-2818, or George Ford, 452-2408, of the Princeton Junction Fire Co.

Space allocated to the PAA will be the former stage and the area in front of it. The PAA will build a barrier between this studio area and the open floor area, to separate studio activities from those of the seniors.

Before anyone can move in, the roof must be repaired and the interior work completed, and January 1 is the deadline for completion of this work. Specifications for roof repair will go out in approximately a week for bidding. When leaks have been closed, interior work can begin.

To finance renovation and conversion of the building — the gym was once badly damaged by fire and has not been maintained — the Borough received a state grant for $22,000 in 1978 and has since received $56,000 more for a total of $78,000. Members of the Senior Citizens Club themselves have worked on various aspects of repair.

The gym was part of the former Miss Fine's School, which occupied the land where Borough Hall now stands. The school merged with the old Princeton Country Day School to form the present Princeton Day School.

WORKSHOP PLANNED

For Women. A workshop entitled "Winning for Women: A New Approach" will be held in this area August 19-21.

The workshop is designed to help women achieve, yet maintain "a feeling of personal fulfillment and an atmosphere of ease about what they do." It will be of particular interest, say the promoters, to those women who know that "they don't have to put anyone down in order for them to feel up, and who are willing to look at some irrational beliefs that are the basis of ineffective behaviors."

The workshop will be led by Dr. Elaine Gagne, president of E.G.A. Management Consultants, a program of workshops specializing in individual and organization growth. Dr. Gagne is a member of the Female Executive Association, Mensa International, and executive director of the Whole Health Institute.

For more information call Dr. Susan Rosoff at 448-5594, or Debra Witmoyer at 452-5394 (days).

OUTINGS ARE LISTED

In New Guidebook. "There are so many interesting things to see and do in this part of the world," notes Barbara L.K. Dye, a Yardley resident who has written a new guidebook that has been published by the Woman's Newspaper of Princeton.

Entitled "Outings in the Greater Princeton Area," the book lists zoos, gardens, museums, beaches, villages, tennis clubs, lakes, rivers, woods, ski areas, and restored villages. The area covered is defined by a circle centered on Princeton, with a radius of 50 miles.

The book is divided into chapters for particular groups and for what the weather holds: Outings for Kids, Families, Rainy Days, Sunny Days, Exercise, Fresh Air and Special People. There are two indexes, one organized alphabetically and the other geographically.

Princeton listings are comprehensive and up-to-date. Included, for instance, are the new hours for Morven as a museum and the most recent addition to the park system, Turning Basin Park. The Princeton University Chapel starts off the chapter of outings for adults, and although there are no listings in Princeton in the chapter for kids, there are plenty in the chapter for families.

NEW LOCATION SET

For Nursery School. Nassau Co-Operative Nursery School, which has served area families for more than 20 years, is relocating to the Littlebrook School building at 39 Magnolia Lane. There are still several openings in the three-year-old class.

Anyone interested in enrolling a three-year old in the school, which offers a pre-school program for three and four-year olds, should call registrar Linda Hay at 799-8398 for more information.

All classes at Nassau Co-Op meet five days a week. Children may attend a morning class from 9 am to noon, or they may enroll in a full day program from 9 am to 3 pm. Morning students have the option of remaining through the afternoon on an hourly basis.

Cindy Chessler is the director. The school follows the same calendar year as the Princeton Regional School System. Classes will begin September 12.

LET'S TALK ABOUT
MITE WATCH—
with Sam DeTuro
Woodwinds Associates

Deciduous trees often take on a bronze, dusty look this time of year. Spruce, Hemlock, Arborvitae, even Azaleas, Boxwood and Privet may have a chlorotic appearance. Too often this is dismissed as due to hot, dry weather. The cause, many times, is an infestation of mites, some so tiny that hundreds congregate on a single leaf. Mite damage is not merely marring the green appearance of leaves and needles, but in actuality, sapping the tree's vitality. Twig dieback may result. In some areas where drought conditions exist this can hasten a tree's decline. Mites can be controlled by spraying the leaves with a miticide. Supplement this spraying with a "deep-root" application of a balanced liquid fertilizer to help restore the tree's vigor. To determine if your tree has mites just make this simple test — shake or beat a few twigs over a sheet of paper or cardboard. Mites that drop can be seen scurrying across the paper.

Do watch your Dogwoods carefully if the hot, dry weather continues!! The stresses on Dogwoods in our area over the past few years has taken its toll on many specimen trees. Consider deep root feeding to help combat Dogwood injury.

Call WOODWINDS (924-3500) with any questions you may have concerning your valuable trees and shrubs.

TRINITY IS HOST

To Bikers Fighting Hunger. Thirty-eight Harvard undergraduates rode through Princeton last Friday on a bike trip from Seattle to Boston. Their goal is to raise $250,000 for Oxfam-America, a Boston based hunger fighting agency, and to inform people nationwide of the opportunity to erradicate starvation by the end of the century.

The 3600 mile ride began in mid-June. After each day's ride of 80 miles or so, the group is housed by churches or community groups.

In Princeton, the group was housed and given dinner at Trinity Church on Thursday night, after having met with Governor Thomas Kean, who commended them "for really doing something about this most fundamental problem." They left early Friday morning, equipped with box lunches donated by Interstate Food Service, which serves the University Plasma Physics Laboratory.

Their next stops were New Providence on Saturday, and a spin around the field at a Mets game on Sunday.

Natalie Z. Davis, Princeton History Professor, Is Consultant to Award-winning French Film

Natalie Zemon Davis

"A historian's adventure with a different way of telling about the past" is the way Natalie Zemon Davis describes her stint as historical consultant for the award-winning French film, "Le Retour de Martin Guerre," now playing in New York City. Mrs. Davis is the Henry Charles Lea Professor of History at Princeton University.

From that experience, she has also written her own historical account of this true tale of identity and deception, desertion and adultery, accusation and cover-up in 16th century France. "The Return of Martin Guerre" has just been published in hardcover by Harvard University Press.

Mrs. Davis specializes in the social and cultural history of early modern France, with particular emphasis on women and families. She discovered the story of Martin Guerre in the rare book library at Berkeley, where she taught for six years before joining the Princeton faculty in 1978. The work was "Arrest Memorable," the account written in 1561 by one of the judges at the Parlement of Toulouse who presided over an extraordinary trial of a man accused of being an imposter.

Written in French right after the trial, the book was reprinted five times in the next six years, Mrs. Davis tells us, and had several more editions in French and Latin before the end of the century. The story itself became a legend and is still remembered in the Pyrenean village of Artigat where the imposter was executed 400 years ago. It has inspired a play, two novels and an operetta.

Perfect Film Material. When Mrs. Davis first read the judge's account, she knew immediately that it was perfect material for a film. In brief, it is the story of a well-off peasant in southwestern France who leaves his "beautiful" wife (the judge described her as "belle"), his infant son and his patrimony. After an absence of eight years, he returns and regains his place in the family and in the village. All goes well for three and a half years until he quarrels with his uncle over the accounts and rumors arise that he is not Martin Guerre at all, but Arnaud de Tilh. Brought to trial, the defendant has almost persuaded the judges of his identity when the real Martin Guerre appears. Insisting all along that he is Martin Guerre, and buttressed by the testimony of the wife who carefully describes only those events of their life which he also can describe, Arnaud de Tilh finally confesses the truth to the priest before the scaffold where he is hung and the body burned.

The wife is absolved of the sin of adultery and presumably lives out her life with the husband who deserted her and whom she may not have liked as much as she did the imposter.

In France in June, 1980, for a conference, Mrs. Davis learned that two French film makers were planning to made a movie out of the Martin Guerre legend. Uncertain whether they would want to work with an American woman, she nevertheless called them up and to her delight was enlisted for what later was titled "historical consultant." This involved helping from the very beginning with the conceptualization, the scenario and the characterization.

The following September the film went on location in a village not far from Artigat, and she was there, assisting with props and costumes and sets, drawing upon her knowledge of the period and producing photographs of early woodcuts to make a point.

Timeful and Timeless. "I wanted my historical work on this film to make the film breathe with the spirit of the past, but not just be pedantic," Mrs. Davis says in her enthusiastic way. "Catching the spirit of a period different from our own is what makes it interesting. A historical film ought to be able to undo the stereotypes of the past and surprise people—make them see how we're still connected with that past."

Directed by Daniel Vigne and starring Gerard Depardieu and Nathalie Baye, the film received warm praise from Vincent Canby in the New York Times. It won the Prix Femina in Belgium in 1982 and was awarded three French Academy Awards in 1983 for scenario and dialogue, for set and for music. Lit in warm brown tones, its settings have been compared to Breughel paintings.

Mrs. Davis says that working on the film prompted her to dig deeper into the case and to make historical sense out of it. Writing for actors rather than readers, she says, raised new questions about the motivations of people in the 16th century.

Watching the actors feel their way into their roles also gave her new insights into the whole idea of peasant identity and the situation of women. She says it was like "having my own historical laboratory, its experiments generating not proofs, but historical possibilites."

Then too she found troubling the film's occasional departures from the historical record for the purposes of emotional impact; all these reasons impelled her to write her own account. Where the movie builds suspense by not revealing the outcome until the end, Mrs. Davis's book assumes that the reader knows that Arnaud de Tilh is an imposter and sets out to explain why he undertook such a role and how he very nearly succeeded.

Princeton's Matt Willis Establishes Himself As One of Nation's Top Competitive Cyclists

TRIUMPH! Eighteen-year old Matthew Willis of Princeton raises his arms in triumph as he wins the 20-mile Tour of Flemington bicycle race in May. When his mother asked him how he felt as he crossed the finish line he told her that he felt his arms weren't long enough. Story this page. (David Schrayer photo)

When he is out training, riding 50 to 60 miles a day, part of the 300 he estimates he travels each week, Princeton's 18-year-old Matt Willis, who is a racing cyclist, admits, "Sometimes you ask yourself, 'Why am I doing this?' ".

The doubt is fleeting. "Training," says Matt, "is important as it is in any endurance sport." Some 70,000 miles later, he has established himself as one of the top competitive racers for his age in the country.

His long-range goal is the 1988 Olympics in Seoul, Korea. "I definitely have the Olympics in my sight; I'd like to do that a lot," confirms Matt. "With this money limit (under the rule of the U.S. Cycling Federation, the governing body for all cycling events in the United States) a cyclist can earn up to $1,000 a day and still maintain his amateur status.

"There is not that much incentive to go professional. If I can do well, I can stay amateur and not have to get a full time job that would take me away from cycling."

Besides, Matt likes his chances in the Olympics. The people who are going to go are those he is racing against now, he says. "If I can keep going as well as I have and stay interested—and I can't see wanting to quit—I think my chances are pretty good."

For the immediate future, Matt, who graduated in June from Princeton High School, plans to postpone college temporarily, take a year off and go to Europe to race. "It helps to race in Europe," he says. "Europe is THE cycling place."

Matt has just recently returned from Super Week in Milwaukee, a grueling, eight-day event wherein competitors race every day for a total of 350 miles. Each day there is a different type of race, each assigned a point total. Matt won the junior overall title by 25 points.

"Super Week convinced me I could ride consistently and ride on a national level," said Matt. "After eight days my legs were hurting; I can't imagine doing it for 20 more," he continued, referring to the Tour of France, a 28-day European annual craze in which the winner becomes an automatic national hero. Yes, Matt would like to compete in the event if he can.

Grueling Sport. "Cycling is one of the more grueling sports," offered Matt. "It hurts to go hard. You hit your pain threshold and the guy next to you is still going so you have to go beyond what you think you are capable of.

"What I like about racing is it gets the adrenaline going. The excitement. It's neat. The camaraderie of the riders ... the beauty of the countryside. I can get out of town in five minutes. I don't think a lot of people realize how pretty the countryside is around Princeton.

"When I get back from a hard training ride, I'm tired but exhilarated. I can feel my whole body. The next day you do it again ... another hard ride. But you can feel yourself getting into shape. When you go to sleep at night you know you've done something."

This season it all came together for Matt. Last year (a season begins in March and runs through October) he was, he said, consistently in the top three in local races and maybe the top ten in national races; this year that changed to the top locally and the top three nationally.

One reason for his success, Matt explained, is that he is stronger and at the top of his age group (15 to 18). Although he will have to compete against seniors next year, Matt believes the transition will go smoothly because, he points out, he has already been racing against seniors in many races.

Photo Finish. He started the current season by winning the National Capital Open in Washington, D.C. in April from among 170 entries. The margin was by inches. A picture on the wall in his "bike room" in his home at 98 Mercer Road of the finish line shows a solid line of bikes. After 35 kilometers of racing, it was so close, recalls Matt, a photo timer was needed to determine the winner. Bunched as they were, a crash could have spelled disaster.

Crashing, Matt reports, is a part of the sport. After winning Super Week, he traveled to San Diego to compete in the Nationals. By the luck of the draw, he was last in a field of 150 starters but by the end of the first five-mile lap in the 75-mile race, had worked his way to the front of the pack.

Halfway through the race, the cyclist in front of him went down and Matt's front wheel crashed into the fallen rider. Matt was thrown over the handlebars. His bike's front wheel was damaged and he could not continue.

"It was a big disappointment," agreed Matt. Especially when he learned that the cyclist who finished second in the Nationals had placed third behind Matt at Super Week the week before.

Two years ago in the Nationals, Matt had taken a spill two miles from the finish line.

On consecutive days on Memorial Day weekend, Matt finished third in the Junior Criterium National Championship 30-mile race among a field of 170 cyclists -- all national competitors -- and the following day against the same field he captured another bronze medal in the 40th Annual Memorial Day Tour of Somerville.

He then won the Siegfried Stern Memorial Race in Central Park and on May 1 he won the Tour of Flemington race for the first time. The latter has special meaning for Matt.

Three years earlier, the Flemington Tour was the first sanctioned race Matt entered. "I came in about tenth," he recalled. "I remember being in awe of all those in the race. I had read their names in cycling magazines and had memorized all their times. Two years later it was me."

In October, Matt hopes to represent the United States on the Junior World Team in the World Championship races in New Zealand.

Versatile. About a month ago, Matt began experimenting with track bike racing. Using a bike that weighs only 15 pounds and has no brakes (Matt's Miyata road model which is provided by his sponsor weighs about 21 pounds) two cyclists ride around a highly-banked wooden oval jockeying for position. On the last lap both then sprint furiously toward the finish line.

Matt went to a couple of such races and after noticing that those who were winning were the same riders he was beating on the road, he said . "Why limit myself?"

I'm still not quite used to the track," says Matt. "There are a lot of changes you have to get used to. It's a lot of tactics.

But a measure of how quickly he is learning came last month when he entered his first track meet -- the N.J. State Championships in Trexlertown, Pa. There were only about 20 top riders from New Jersey in the field, including some seniors, but Matt won the event.

His mother (his parents travel to many of Matt's races) explained Matt's success this way: the difference between just being great and sensational in any field -- whether it be in cycling, in music or in science -- is God-given gift. Matt has a gift for cycling."

How It Started. Soon after Matt and his family moved to Princeton when he was in eighth grade, his father, who is a professor at the Princeton Theological Seminary, bought a racing bike for $20 from an Italian student who was moving back to Europe. "It was worth a lot more," recalls Matt.

His friend, David LaFleur, who has been his training partner and racing companion ever since, came over one day and saw the bike. "I thought, heck, we might as well go out for a ride," said Matt.

Soon he was visiting Kopp's Cycle Shop where owner Fred Kuhn encouraged him to enter the Littlebrook School races, a 15-mile criterium held every Thursday night since first organized by Mr. Kuhn about four years ago. Matt and Dave entered the five-minute handicap group which starts five minutes before the best riders. (There is also a three-minute, one-minute and scratch handicap group.) The top riders failed to catch Matt and Dave who finished first and second. "We were hooked," says Matt.

Princeton, Matt discovered, was a good place for a budding cyclist. Kopp's is the headquarters for the Century Road Club of America, the hub for cycling in the Princeton area. The university has a cycling team. The two started riding and training with other riders.

Mr. Kuhn started to give Matt parts and equipment when he couldn't afford them. When he tried to pay for them Mr. Kuhn said, "Don't worry about it." Matt also revealed that Mr. Kuhn had paid his way to Milwaukee for Super Week and that his daughter had driven him there.

Between his sophomore and junior years, Matt took the big step of getting a U.S. Cycling Federation License. "I was a licensed rider. Big time. From then on I considered myself a bicycle racer," said Matt.

He and Dave started to enter bigger races. In the winter of his junior year, the two went to the Olympic Training Center in Colorado Springs. It was his first contact with national coaching and with who was who on the national scene. There they underwent extensive physical tests, learned about nutrition and how to train.

"It helped," said Matt. "A lot of things improved after that." He was on his way.

Talking about his cycling career in one of his rare quiet moments at home -- Matt is also a standout trumpet player and has a fine tenor voice, touring the major cathedrals in Europe in 1980 with the men's and boy's Trinity Church Choir -- Matt commented, "I never thought I would go as far as I have. I can remember reading the cycling paper, reading every word. I looked up to those guys as gods and now I'm there."

He owes, he said, a big debt to Mr. Kuhn, who has nurtured many other fledgling riders along the way.

"He's done a lot for me. He may appear gruff at times but he's a nice and generous guy. I would just like to say, 'Thanks, Mr. Kuhn.' "

—Preston Eckmeder

So You Want to Get into Cycling...

The best way to get into cycling, says Matt, is to enter the Littlebrook race held every Thursday night. The 15-mile race starts at 6:15.

It's a good mixture of recreational riders and more serious cyclists, reports Matt. Entrants have to wear a helmet. There are four groups: five-minute handicap, which starts five minutes before the other riders, three-minute and one-minute. The scratch group goes off last and usually ends up catching up to and passing everyone else. "But not always," says Matt. The course, which starts and ends at the school, is totally sealed off to traffic.

The next step up are races held every Wednesday night for cyclists in Neshanic. That course is 28 miles long.

HOW'S THE WIND?

RCA is Working on It. "Windsat," a laser instrument collecting global wind information from its position on a satellite, could save airlines $200 million a year in fuel costs by allowing pilots to alter their flight routes to take advantage of tailwinds and avoid headwinds, according to word from RCA Astro-Electronics. The instrument would also provide better medium and long-range weather forecasts.

It's long-range itself — predicted for 1990 — but a feasibility study shows that the Windsat could be installed on the Advanced TIROS-N satellite, now being designed at RCA. The Windsat would measure radiation from a laser beam shot down toward earth from the satellite, and reflected back by windborne tracers like dust in the atmosphere.

The Windsat was developed in the environmental research laboratories of NOAA, the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration.

Scanning the atmosphere over the entire globe twice a day, Windsat could bring about the saving of $1 billion a year, if foreign airlines also took advantage of the improved wind data, RCA and NOAA say.

Atmospheric scientists seem to agree that accurate global wind measurements are needed for better medium and long-range weather forecasting. At present, winds at the upper levels of the atmosphere are measured by instruments on balloons, and to some extent by temperature readings obtained by satellites from which meteorologists can infer wind data.

TREES FOR EDEN, along with ground cover and shrubs all donated by Princeton Nurseries, are planted at Eden's new location on Route One and Logan Drive. Volunteers taking part in the planting are, from left, Matt Crocker, Tim Brush and Mike Blaxill. Eden Institute, a school for children and young people with autism, will be moving to the new location this fall.

all but two scored more than 650.

Of the 45 students who took Advanced Placement English, 42 made the qualifying score.

"Many kids take several AP tests, and it's rare not to earn a qualifying score."

It also makes Mr. McKenzie angry that the College Board sells this "Guide to Secondary Schools," ($30) and he points to the New York Times story reporting that it is used by real estate firms and corporate relocaters.

"I find this most objectionable," he declared, "because people can draw false conclusions. If you have a very bright kid, go to the school and find out what the program is. The school could have a better Advanced Placement program than a school with a higher score."

At the New York office of the College Board, Maureen Matheson, senior editor for data-based publications, explained that the guide is "a professional publication, printed in very small quantities, and used by admissions officers to help them find out what a school's policies are. We haven't marketed it to real estate people, and our sales records don't bear out that it goes to real estate agents."

Why didn't Princeton get the questionnaire?

Ms. Matheson says it was mailed, first class, to school principals with "Request for information for Secondary School Guides" on the outside of the envelope. It was mailed in early September with a requested reply date of October.

The Board's regional office in Philadelphia sent a follow-up to the heads of high school guidance departments. Also, she said, the Middle States Association of Schools and Colleges sent a letter to all its members — and Princeton is one — urging them to respond to the survey.

She reports that the College Board received a request from Princeton for a second questionnaire, sent one in early November but never got it back.

"I feel very badly about this," she said, "Princeton is a member of the College Board and we're especially interested in serving our members."

It will be "two or three years," she said, before schools in this region are surveyed again.

Bicentennial Events Will Be Celebrated By Princeton in Fall

Everyone loves a celebration, and Princeton will be the scene of several special bicentennial celebrations this fall. With bonfire and fireworks, pealing bells and 13-gun salute, diplomatic reception and fancy dress ball, the community will take note of historic events of two centuries ago.

This is, after all, the 200th anniversary of the Treaty of Paris that ended the American Revolution. And it is also the 200th anniversary of the brief period in the nation's history when Princeton was the nation's capital. The Continental Congress convened here from July to November, 1783, and it was at Nassau Hall that the news of the signing of the Treaty of Paris was first received by the new nation.

In events beginning in October and continuing through November, Town, Gown and State will in separate celebrations pay homage to the events that signified the emergence of the thirteen colonies as a nation recognized by other nations.

The Chamber of Commerce of the Greater Princeton Area has chosen the weekend of October 14-16 as the focus of its celebration in honor of the Treaty of Paris. The Princeton football team will play Navy for the first time in 30 years on Saturday, October 15. After the Continental Congress left Princeton 200 years ago it repaired to Annapolis to await the building of the permanent capitol on the banks of the Potomac.

The Chamber has invited U.S. senators and governors from the 13 original states, ambassadors from Canada and Mexico, as well as from Denmark and the Philippines (the two nations that honor July 4 as a national

Appeal Is Filed with Borough Council Protesting Plans for Nassau Inn Addition

R. William Potter of Edgerstoune Road, has filed an appeal from the Planning Board's approval of the Collins Development plans for the Nassau Inn addition. The appeal, to Borough Council, was filed Friday in Borough Hall.

Council is not scheduled to meet until September 12 and will probably not set a hearing date until then. Under state law, the governing body must reach a decision within 95 days of the date the Planning Board's action was published, which was August 10.

Although Mr. Potter could have gone directly to the law division of Superior Court, he said that as a lawyer — he is with the public advocate's office — he preferred "to exhaust the local remedies first." If he loses before Council, Superior Court would be his next step.

Mr. Potter's appeal has nothing to do with the granting of air rights to Collins for construction of a bridge over Palmer Square East.

That ordinance has not even been passed yet, and Council will hold public hearing on it Tuesday, September 13 before taking final vote. Any appeal from that vote — assuming Council passes the ordinance — would be to Superior Court.

The 11-page appeal has five broad categories. First, Mr. Potter says the Planning Board decision has "a fatal flaw," because it "neglects" the Mt. Laurel II court decision requiring a municipality and developer to address the need for lower-cost housing.

Second, he says the board did not adequately consider "secondary impacts" like traffic or the ability of the sewer lines to absorb the 56,000 gallons a day Collins would presumably contribute.

Neighborhood Study Begun In John-Witherspoon Area

The "Omnibus Neighborhood Survey" of the John-Witherspoon area began this Monday.

The five surveyors — Lisa Bess, Deborah Curtis, Portia Edwards, Gina Jackson and Lisa Rhodes — will cover every house and apartment in the neighborhood, asking residents to answer the 28 questions on a Department of Community Affairs questionnaire.

More than 40 residents of the area attended a meeting Sunday, examined copies of the questionnaire and asked their own questions of Borough Administrator Mark Gordon, Borough Clerk Penelope Edwards and Leonard Zuhlcke, of the state's Department of Community Affairs.

Questions, questonnaire and answers are related to the Borough's new $85,000 Neighborhood Preservation Grant from the DCA for the renovation of properties in the John Street-Witherspoon Street neighborhood.

After finding out how many people live in a house or apartment, how old they are, whether they have jobs, own or rent, surveyors will ask home-owners how much they pay each month for mortgage, real estate tax, insurance, heating oil, natural gas, electricity, water and sewer.

The questionnaire also asks how a home is heated — kerosene, wood, coal, electricity, oil, gas? — what is the general physical condition of the house, ranging from "excellent" to "very poor," and are there problems with heating, plumbing, storm doors, rodents, wet basement, roofs, electricity?

"We won't give you new kitchen cabinets or wall-to-wall carpet," warned DCA official Leonard Zuhlcke. "It's not what you want, but what you need: do you have bad plumbing or heating, or need a new roof?"

Details of the grant have not yet been developed, but in broad terms, it will work like this:

- If you are a home-owner on a fixed income — this applies chiefly to the elderly — you could receive an outright grant of as much as $5,000 to do basic repairs.
- If you have a low income (see below), you could get a bank loan at reduced interest, paying perhaps 3 to 6 percent, instead of the 9.95 percent currently charged. The loan, for example, might be for $15,000, payable over 10 to 15 years.
- If you have a higher income, you could receive "some help."
- Owners of commercial buildings could receive an incentive grant of around $1,000.
- The Borough and the DCA will not lend the money. You will apply to the program's co-ordinator who would send a Borough housing inspector to your property and write up an estimate.

BICENTENNIAL PIPING: Rotary Club meets regularly on Tuesdays, and this past Tuesday was close to the 200th anniversary of August 26, 1783, when Gen. George Washington rode into town from Rockingham to receive the thanks of Congress, sitting in Nassau Hall. Rotary members relived that moment this week by meeting in Nassau Hall and hearing a capsule history of the American Revolution and "king's music from 1784" by the Joshua Huddy's Fife and Drum Corps of Colts Neck. (Michaela McMillan photo)
